

Vrs system is still discriminatory because there is too much of a waiting period before making calls. I can see my hearing wife making calls instantly, whereas I must wait up to 30 minutes or more until I can place my call-- and often I give up and have to depend on my wife to interpret for me. That gives me a feeling that is is even more unfair than if I had equal and timely access to the telephone.